Hayley Baxendale – National Workplace Health and Safety Manager

“SafetyWorks knows our business. They’ve worked across all our Departments over the past ten years – supporting me and previous Safety Managers and Executive teams. They’ve focussed our strategies, advised us on managing risks, trained our people, coached our leaders, nurtured improvements to our management system and every year they review us to tell us how it’s all going.

They always give professional, honest – sometimes challenging – feedback. These qualities are a great match for McDonald’s because we strive to find opportunities to improve and seek excellence – we need to be one step ahead all the time. Being self-insured gives us a mechanism for that – and SafetyWorks has delivered – helping us to reduce our injuries and claims, as well as achieve four consecutive successful regulatory audits over the past nine years.”
